Tony's grandpa was good at making pig's blood cakes. He sold them at the night market. People came to the night market and always liked to buy his food. Derek, a foreigner, never ate a pig's blood cake before. Once, seeing his friends taste it, he gave it a try, too. After he took a bite, he fell in love with it and just couldn't stop. After that, he would buy one for himself when he came to the night market.

Tony's grandpa had many friends at the night market. They also sold different snacks in Taiwan. Mr. Wu sold oyster omelets and fried noodles. Ms. Chen sold fried chicken. Ted was a young man and he started his business with a pearl milk tea stand. Their stands were also popular with people. They all were nice and friendly to Tony's grandpa, so Tony's grandpa was happy at the night market. Sometimes Tony helped his grandpa at the stand and he was happy to see his grandpa work happily and still looked so strong. Sometimes he took his friends to his grandpa's stand and his friends liked his grandpa's food very much. By selling pig's blood cakes, Tony's grandpa had a chance to stay with young people. He always said staying with them kept him young. He looked so young and nobody could believe he was over eighty. He also learned English from Derek, so he could speak a little English. Fables are short stories with special messages. They teach both adults and children lessons about good and bad, and right and wrong. They show them the right way to behave and treat other people. Fables like Aesop's Fables are popular and usually have animals and forces of nature in them to make children feel interested.

The Lion and the Mouse is a good fable. Here is the story.

Once upon a time, the lion caught the mouse. The mouse asked the lion to let it go and told the lion it might help him one day. The lion laughed, but he still let the little mouse go. A few days later, the lion got caught in a snare and he wasn't able to get out of it. The mouse came and nibbled the rope and set him free. The lion finally knew a small animal like a mouse could help a large one like him. From that day, they were best friends.

4. What is the reading about?

- (A) A special kind of food. (B) A fun way to learn.
(C) A message for adults. (D) A story to teach lessons.
