After the Wright Brothers flew the first airplane in 1903, people can move from one place to another in several hours. Although this makes life more convenient for us, it's dangerous sometimes. Planes travel at speed of 880-926 km/hr. Birds sometimes fly or get sucked into airplane engines. This is called a "bird strike." Most airplanes have at least two engines. If one engine fails, an airplane still fly with just one engine.

One cold winter Thursday in 2009 would forever change aviation history. Flight 1549 took off from the LaGuardia airport in New York at 15:25 on January 15. When the plane was climbing higher, a group of Canada geese appeared in the air at the same time. Both engines stopped working, and the plane started to go down. They tried to go back, but they wouldn't make it. The next nearest airport was too far away. Finally, the captain decided to land the airplane in the Hudson River. It was the right choice. All 155 people on the flight were safe.

- (A) He had no choice.
(B) There were no birds in the Hudson River.
(C) He didn't want to return to LaGuardia airport.
(D) He didn't find the way to the next nearest airport.

9. What does strike mean?
- (A) Fly in the sky.
(B) Fight for the sky.
(C) Hurt someone by accident.
(D) Make something not to continue working.

10. Which is true?
- (A) A bird may be dangerous for the airplane.
(B) A bird strike always happens.
(C) All of the people on Flight 1549 finally died.
(D) The captain saved Canada geese.
